The Lemonade Stand

On a hot Saturday morning, Mia and her little brother Ben wanted to earn money for a new kite. "Let's sell lemonade!" said Mia. Their dad helped them squeeze ten lemons into a big pitcher of cold water.

Ben made a sign with bright blue letters. It said "Lemonade 25 cents." Mia set up a small table at the end of the driveway and put out a stack of paper cups. They waited and waited, but nobody came.

Then Mia had an idea. "People can't see our sign from the corner," she said. They carried the table to the big oak tree next to the sidewalk. Soon a man walking his dog stopped for a cup. Next, three kids on bikes bought lemonade too.

By lunchtime the pitcher was empty. Ben counted the coins in the jar. They had made four dollars! Mia smiled and gave her brother a high five. "Tomorrow we can make two pitchers," Ben said.
